Dunk tanks, pig roasts all part of annual motorcycle rally

By MATT DOUTHETT

mdouthett@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE — By looking at its name, one would think that the upcoming Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce's Rally By The Lake II is catered to exactly as the name sounds — bikers.

But it's much more than that. There will be merchant vendors, a pig roast, a dunk tank, an hourly raffle, airbrush tattoos and music by a Tom Petty tribute band. The grand prize raffle will include two Harley Davidson 105th Anniversary tickets. Part of the proceeds from the raffles will go toward the Fox Lake American Legion riders.

The event is in its second year of existence and is an annual event. It will go from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 24, at Lakefront Park in Fox Lake. The Tom Petty tribute band will play at noon.

There will be a bike show at the event with first, second and third place trophies as well as a people's choice award for the best looking bike.

"I've been told that that's the honored trophy to get," said Chamber of Commerce office manager Linnea Pioro. "It's not a matter of what you put into your bike, it's the matter of which bike people think is the best."

Last year's event was not as successful as originally planned because of flooding at Lakefront Park. All of the events will take place in the park, so it is an outside event.

Pioro said that a few days before last year's event, Illinois Gov. Rod Blagojevich was in town walking around Lakefront Park with Fox Lake Mayor Cindy Irwin showing him the flooding. At that time, Fox Lake was a disaster area.

Regardless of the flooding, Pioro said that about 300 motorcycles came to the event.

"We're anticipating a huge turnout for this year's event," Pioro said.

Before the festivities at Lakefront Park, a motorcycle parade will start at 9 a.m. at Jimmy V's sports bar in Ingleside.

"The American Legion riders will be our honor guard, and they'll take us up to the park from there," Pioro said.

Pioro said that the original idea of the event last year was for bikers, but also to show off what Fox Lake has to offer as a village.

"We start at 10 a.m., so people might go to Whistle Stop and have breakfast first," she said. "You're bringing people into your community. We wanted to do it to have more people know where Fox Lake was and stop. Instead of riding through, [we want people to] stop and see Fox Lake."

A Good Samaritan shows up in Lake County

I received a wonderful e-mail from reader Doris Anderson of Wauconda, who has worked in the meat department of the Jewel there for 20 years.

She found herself in a sticky situation not too long ago, stuck in Volo with a flat tire, no cell phone and only $2 on her person.

Luckily, someone was there to help - a man who she said was working hard all weekend but found the time to help out a stranger on the road.

Having just $2 on her, she couldn't offer him much, but she did give him a hug, thanked him and told him she would be praying for him.

Joe Grace

Believe me, Doris, that was payment enough. And we at the Journals thank this Good Samaritan, as well.

Summer is almost over. And yet there still is so much I haven't done yet.

I haven't been to one of those big water parks with dozens of rides.

Nor have I gone hiking, hosted a picnic or gone on any kind of vacation.

I haven't crossed off even half of my list of things to do this summer. And I only have a few weeks left before Labor Day.

What are some of the things you still hope to accomplish this summer?

Write to me with suggestions at jgrace@nwnewsgroup.com.

Also, you can vote on our Web poll at www.LakeCountyJournals.com.

It was brought to my attention this weekend by a staff member at Tempel Farms in Wadsworth that there was some inaccurate information on the front page of the LakeLife section in the Aug. 14 issue.

We ran that the prices were $9 for adults and $6 for children.

This is the price for the off-season tours.

The performance pricing is $18 for adults, $15 for seniors and $10 for children.

We apologize for the error.

Heeding the wild call of the riled

No doubt if I call, I will interrupt my 17-year-old grandson in the midst of him text-messaging his girlfriend, who is probably sitting across the room from him, text messaging him back. But it's been a while since we've talked so I phone. I don't want him to think I've passed away and no one's told him.

After a slight prayer that I get voice mail, so I can just leave an adoring grandmotherly message, he picks up. "Talk to me, Dude," Jeremy says. (Apparently, caller I.D. is on the fritz, or maybe not.)

"It's Grandma Judi," I say. "How are you?"

"Good," he answers. (Well, at least he didn't say, "Grandma Who?")

"What's happenin'?" I ask, trying to sound way cool, although I think I was through being cool somewhere around 1967.

"Nuthin'," he says.

"Have you gone to any concerts?"

"Yep."

"Who did you see?"

"Rage Against the Machine."

"What kind of music do they play?"

"Stuff."

"How's school?"

"Good."

"Did you get the check Grandpa and I sent you for your birthday two months ago?"

"Yep. Sweet."

Judi Veoukas

"Buy anything fun with it?"

"Yep."

"What did you buy?"

"Stuff."

"What else is going on, Jeremy?"

"Nuthin'."

"We saw 'Mamma Mia,'" I tell him, "and I liked the music."

"What's 'Mamma Mia?'" he asks, sounding the same way he would if I'd told him I had sciatica. No, let me clarify that. There would be no possibility on the face of the earth that he'd ask what sciatica was.

"Mamma Mia" is a movie with lots of ABBA songs," I answer.

"What's ABBA?" he says?

I start to explain, but figure I've worn out his vocal chords because he's strung two- and three-word sentences together. I ask if either his mom or dad is there.

"Dad's upstairs," he says. Silence follows.

"Can you get him for me, Jeremy?"

I hear a shout, "DUDE, phone!"

"Bye, Jeremy," I say. "Keep chillin', Grandma." He's gives the phone to his dad.

I tell Jeremy's dad that the kid doesn't say anything.

"Tell me about it," he says. "Our last conversation was him asking for money to go to a concert."

"For Rage Against the Machine?"

"You've heard of them?" Jeremy's dad says, sounding as surprised as if I'd told him I'd discovered pole dancing and will put on a performance at the next family gathering. "Do you know what kind of music they play?" he says.

"They play 'stuff,'" I reply.

"Oops, sorry, I've got to go," he says.

"I'm getting an Internet message on my BlackBerry."

I hang up and shake my head. My husband asks if I'm OK, but when I tell him I've been "talking" to Jeremy he nods with understanding.

I blabber on, "Remember when he was a little guy and his mom put him on the phone, but he wouldn't say anything that we could decipher?"

Remember how we used to talk to him anyway? Well, nothing has changed; I still don't understand him only now I feel so old and un-cool."

My husband puts his arms around me. "You're still my groovy kind of girl."

"Thanks, dude," I say.

A trip they'll both remember

Local husband, wife set to leave Aug. 25 for yearlong missionary trip to South Africa

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

LINDENHURST – On Monday, Aug. 25, Matt and Jacinda Shields of Lindenhurst will leave for a one-year missionary service all the way to South Africa.

Matt and Jacinda are working with "Young Adults in Global Mission" through the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA).

This program will provide a one-year mission service and learning opportunities in an international setting.

This will be the first time that the program is destined for South Africa.

Other locations include Argentina, Kenya, Slovakia, and India.

In 1994, the first nationwide democratic election were held for all people in the Republic of South Africa, ending the apartheid era – and minority white rule.

However, the country is still adressing economic and social disputes, as well as an HIV/AIDS crisis.

Matt and Jacinda will have the opportunity to work in a variety of different areas including HIV/AIDS ministry, care for elderly and orphans, and administration and research.

They will find out where they are most needed after an orientation, scheduled before they leave.

The Shields are being sponsored by St. Mark Lutheran Church in Lindenhurst and other Lutheran churches throughout Illinois.

Jacinda has just finished a masters program at Trinity College in Deerfield, and Matt will be taking time off from his job at Trader Joe's Grocery Store.

Matt's father, Bill Shields, is the associate pastor at St. Mark Lutheran Church.

Matt and Jacinda thank the community for their support and prayers.

Matt and Jacinda will be living in a modest apartment in Port Elizabeth.

They will be given a stipend to cover living expenses.

This simple living is intended as both a spiritual practice as well as a socioeconomic statement.

When the Shields return home next summer, they plan on having a better understanding of global issues, and their faith strengthened.

A new set of footprints

Village approves plan to connect pathways

By MEGAN LOISELLE

lindhurst@weeklyjournals.com

LINDENHURST – Lindenhurst residents will soon be able to trade some of their carbon footprints for actual footsteps.

Instead of driving to the library or the Village Hall, a network of pathways linking the entire village will allow residents to walk or bike.

The Village of Lindenhurst and the Lindenhurst Park District approved a comprehensive plan last week that would create better connections between existing paths at the Millburn schools, several neighborhoods and even the Lake County Forest Preserve trails.

Park District Executive Director Tom Lippert said public entities such as schools; the Village Hall and the library could be accessible by foot or bike in the future. The upcoming Village Green, which will be located at the northwest corner of Grand Avenue and Route 45, is also included in the plan.

A pedestrian system was one of the top priorities for Lindenhurst residents in 2004, according to a community survey, Lippert said.

The plan makes sense these days, he said, as more people are looking for alternative means of transportation.

More paths will be built as the money is available.

New developers would be expected to include pathways throughout their subdivisions.

But most of the trails will have to be retrofitted to existing environments, Lindenhurst Village Engineer Wes Welsh said. Examples include bike lanes along Grand Avenue and sidewalks along Sand Lake Road connecting the Country Place subdivisions to the downtown area.

"It will take some time," Lippert said, adding that they are now looking for opportunities to apply for grants to fund the project.

Within the next few weeks, Lippert said, CD-roms will be distributed to the Department of Transportation and the forest preserves, as their input will be crucial in developing the pathway.

"If we have commitment on every end, this will be a great project," Lippert said.

Real Estate agent training

GRAYSLAKE – The lull in the current real estate marketplace makes now a surprisingly good time to get the training to enter the field when sales pick up, according to Carole Ewing, director of continuing professional development at the College of Lake County.

"If you want a career in real estate, getting the training you need now is a smart move," Ewing said. "Completing the course work to pass the real estate licensing exam will position you to enter the marketplace when conditions improve."

CLC's Continuing Professional Development department offers 14 courses to prepare students for a career in real estate.

The first class, Real Estate Transactions (PRLE1), meets on Thursdays from 5:30 to 10 p.m. from Sept. 4 through Nov. 6 and costs $285.

Another session meets Monday and Wednesdays nights from Sept. 22 through Nov. 5.

After completing this course, students will fulfill the pre-exam requirements for a salesperson's license. CLC is certified by the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation under the Illinois Real Estate Brokers and Sales License Action of 2000.

Also available are core and elective Real Estate Refresher (PRLE 10 and 11) courses, allowing students to review relevant real estate topics while meeting continuing education requirements.

The core course meets from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Nov. 7, and the elective course meets from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Nov. 14.

The cost for each of the refresher courses is $55.

Students need to complete five courses to meet education requirements for the Illinois real estate broker license that fulfill Illinois' pre-license requirements.

Topics include: Contracts and Conveyancing; Advanced Principles of Real Estate; Real Estate Finances; Property Management and Broker Administration.

These classes meet in November and December and cost $95 each.

Another course, Real Estate Review, helps students prepare for the State of Illinois real estate sales person or broker license exam.

In Real Estate Investing, participants learn how to develop a system to successfully invest in real estate including updated information with hands-on experience using computer resources to assist in real estate investing.

There is also a Mortgage Loan Originator course.

Rounding out the offerings is Home Inspection from Sept. 22 through Nov. 10, meeting on Tuesday and Thursdays from 6-10 p.m.

This course prepares students to take the Illinois state exam for a home inspection license.

The cost for this program is $675.

Classes are held at the CLC Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St., and the Southlake Campus (Vernon Hills).

Food, Drink Servers Training

GRAYSLAKE – Now is the time to register for one of the hospitality courses available through the Continuing Professional Development department at the College of Lake County (CLC).

During the fall semester, the Beverage and Alcohol Sellers and Servers Educational Training (BASSET) and Food Safety Refresher Course will be offered in both English and Spanish.

Four sessions of BASSET will be conducted in English (PHOS1) and one session will be conducted in Spanish (PHOS2), with the first class in English on Sept. 6 from 8 a.m. to noon. Remaining classes offered in English are Oct. 6; Nov. 1 and Dec. 1.

The Spanish BASSET class is offered Nov. 3. Monday classes are held from 6-10 p.m. and Saturday classes are from 8 a.m. to noon.

This four-hour class is certified by the Illinois Liquor Control Commission, and the cost is $40.

Also offered this fall is the Food Safety Refresher Course for certified food service sanitation managers seeking renewal of their five-year Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) Food Service Sanitation Manager Certification (FSSMC).

Three classes will be offered in English (PHOS3), with the first session on Sept. 12 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Additional Food Safety Refresher classes will be offered on Fridays, Oct.

10 and Dec. 5, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The class will also be taught in Spanish (PHOS4) on Nov. 7 from 4-10 p.m.

The cost for the class is $55.

Classes are held at the CLC Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St., the Southlake Campus (Vernon Hills) and Lakeshore Campus (Waukegan).

New ceramics exhibit opens

GRAYSLAKE – A new ceramic art show featuring works by Ted Neal and Charity Davis-Woodard opens Aug. 22 at the College of Lake County's Robert T. Wright Community Gallery of Art.

The opening reception will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 5.

The event is free and open to the public and features Richard Embach on vibes.

Neal, an assistant art professor at Ball State University, deals with the proliferation of the objects of industry and mass production reformatting into ceramic vessels. Davis-Woodard creates utilitarian ceramic pieces using organic forms and bright contrasting colors.

Neal and Davis-Woodard both participate in the CLC ceramics visiting artist program sponsored by the CLC Ceramics Club. Neal will conduct a ceramics workshop on Sept. 6.

For information, call 847-543-2240. The workshops expose students to various techniques, styles and philosophies and are open to the public at a nominal fee.

Originally from Indianapolis, Davis-Woodard now lives and works as a full-time studio potter in Edwardsville, Ill., where she earned her M.F.A. degree in 1997 from Southern Illinois University.

Over the past 10 years she has taught dozens of workshops for clay guilds, art centers and other educational institutions.

Davis-Woodard's pottery has been exhibited nationally, where it has won a variety of awards in exhibitions such as the NCECA Clay National, Clayfest 2003 and the Utilitarian Ceramics National.

Born and raised in rural upstate New York, Neal received an M.F.A. degree from Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Neal has taught at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, Lewis and Clark Community College and Utah State University.

He has presented workshops and built 31 kilns throughout the United States.

He currently teaches and works as a studio artist at Ball State in Muncie, Ind.

Free international film series

GRAYSLAKE – Four outstanding international films – "Once," "The Orphanage," "Paris Je T'Aime" and "Exiled" – will be presented on Friday nights by the College of Lake County International Education program this fall.

There is no charge for the films, which will be screened at 7 p.m. in room A162 on the CLC Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St.

"Once" (2007) will be shown on Aug. 29.

Made on a micro-budget, "Once" is one of the best musicals in recent memory and one of the best films of last year, according to CLC film instructor Patrick Gonder.

The film, an Oscar winner for "Best Song," follows the growing relationship between an Irish street singer and a young woman who is also a musician, documenting with subtlety, warmth and restraint the complexity of the feelings between these two people and the music that connects them.

"The Orphanage" (2007) will be shown on Oct. 17.

Made by first-time Spanish director Juan Antonio Bayona and produced by Guillermo del Toro, this horror/drama is a somber and gripping portrayal of grief and of the vast difficulties facing a parent who loses a child.

"Paris Je T'Aime" (2006) will be shown on Nov. 7.

This anthology of films – 20 films in two hours – pays tribute to Paris, both the real city (and its attendant social problems) and the Paris of fantasy, of our dreams.

The directors include Oliver Assayas, Alfonso Cuarón, Tom Tykwer, Nobuhiko Suwa, Alexander Payne and the Coen Brothers.

This film is co-sponsored by the Communication Arts, Humanities and Fine Arts division as part of French Week at CLC.

For more information on French

Week, contact Maria Manterola at (847) 543-2291 or mmanterola@clcillinois.edu.

"Exiled" (2006) will be shown on Dec. 12.

Directed by Johnnie To and set in Macao in 1998, this highly stylized example of Hong Kong action cinema offers a tribute to the films of Sergio Leone and Sam Peckinpah (especially "The Wild Bunch").

Tips on how to prevent West Nile

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

The dog days of summer bring hot weather, but they also bring the peak of the West Nile virus season.

While no West Nile virus activity has been reported in Lake County yet this season, a human case has been identified in Kane County and several surrounding counties have identified mosquito pools that have tested positive for West Nile. The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center is urging residents to prevent West Nile virus by protecting themselves from mosquito bites.

Recommendations to prevent mosquito bites include:

- Whenever possible, limit outdoor activity at dusk.
- Wear light-colored clothing that minimizes exposed skin and provides some protection from mosquito bites.
- Keep mosquitoes outside by fixing or installing window and door screens. Make sure the screens fit tightly and that all holes are repaired.
- Whenever applying mosquito repellent to exposed skin, always follow label directions. The most effective repellents contain DEET, which is an ingredient used to repel mosquitoes and ticks. The more DEET a repellent contains the longer time it can protect you from mosquito bites.

Yet another vocab lesson

Class, open your fiction-aries for a vocabulary lesson.

There will be a quiz later.
tootle floots: Surreal Dr. Seuss-ish instruments found in the music room at elementary schools that don't seem to exist in your average symphony orchestra (i.e. recorders, drumsticks without drums and rainbow xylophones).

jello-sy: Envy of other kids' pre-packaged snacks, when your mother sends you to school with a baggie of grapes.

recess pieces: The rocks in your shoes from the playground.

grumble seat: Seat on the bus next to the teacher on the way to the field trip.

Jungle Jim: That unfortunate boy in your class who doesn't understand the repercussions of walking on top of the monkey bars, only to learn a very painful lesson when he slips.

Encyclopedia Crammica: The expensive reference set ($4,52,072 the way your dad makes it sound) that only gets used the night before the big project is due. Attempts not to avoid plagiarism on the three scant paragraphs on broad topics like say, the universe from the beginning of time, are futile.

Project Leaf: The ubiquitous science project that forces children to pillage local parks carrying Encyclopedia Crammicas.

science projectrastinator: That kid who announces at dusk on Thursday that Project Leaf is due Friday morning, and must include more than 20 varieties of coniferous plants.

wax caper: The frustrating process of ironing leaves between two sheets of wax paper to "preserve" them for Project Leaf. Not exactly how the Smithsonian does it.

woody two shoes: That kid who has Project Leaf done the night it's assigned, complete with a Power-Point presentation on bark and its many uses.

brocks: Cardboard blocks printed to look like bricks. For some reason, there was never a shortage of brocks in grade school and Sunday school.

brock-layers' union president: The kid who bullied away all the brocks for his fort.

The Mean Mile: Physical fitness requirement that embarrasses unathletic, wheezy kids, who think chess is a sport (me).

Weight can mislead

A study released this week that found millions of overweight adults are metabolically healthy garnered widespread attention.

The study said 51 percent of overweight adults, or about 36 million people, had mostly normal levels of blood pressure, cholesterol, blood fats called triglycerides, and blood sugar. And almost one-third of obese adults, or about 20 million people, also were in the healthy range.

On top of that, about a fourth of skinny minnies had unhealthy levels in two of the measures.

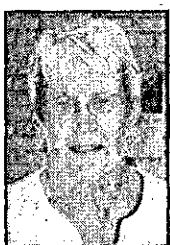

Surely it's time to load up on dessert, visit KFC, and stop exercising, right? Wrong. Another way to read the study is that roughly half of the people who are overweight and two-thirds of those who are obese will face elevated risks for heart disease, while only a quarter of thin people will.

Ultimately, it seems that people need to understand their bodies and be in tune with what is happening with them. Most of us know what we should weigh. We know when we are packing on unneeded pounds. And we know whether we are exercising and how often we visit fast food joints. The bottom line is that a good diet and exercise leads to better health.

Energy plan differences

To the Editor,
On July 8, 2008, I attended a town hall in Gurnee with 8th Congressional District Republican candidate Steve Greenberg.

Mr. Greenberg discussed his comprehensive energy policy based on the simple principle that increased supply with less demand results in lower prices. Mr. Greenberg's plan puts every option on the table and lets the free market pick the winners.

More drilling and expanded refinery capacity increases our oil supply; alternative sources like nuclear, wind, solar, oil shale, and natural gas increase energy supply and reduce oil demand; and new technologies like clean coal, biofuels, hydrogen fuel cells, and others further reduce demand for oil; all resulting in lower fuel prices for us.

Contrast the Greenberg plan with our current representative, Democrat Melissa Bean, who supports the Nancy Pelosi agenda that will serve to only increase prices by restricting supply and discouraging the free market. Bean does not understand economics or the struggles of her constituents.

I'm voting for Steve Greenberg this year because I want a representative that will fight for me and not for Washington politics.

Who's not paying taxes?

To the Editor:
Ever wonder who actually pays the bills for the bloated cost of running our government?
Well, you might be interested to learn who's not helping to pay them.

Two-thirds of all U.S. corporations, along with 68 percent of all foreign companies doing business in the U.S. paid no federal income taxes between 1998 and 2005 - though between them they had $2.5 trillion in sales.

A recent Government Accountability Office report reached that conclusion after analyzing Internal Revenue Service data for those years.

In 2005 alone, reported the GAO, more than 38,000 foreign corporations and 1.2 million U.S. companies paid no income tax.

About 25 percent of those U.S. corporations are companies with assets of at least $250 million, or revenues of $50 million or more.

The GAO did not name those firms, and did not investigate why they were not paying any federal income taxes.

Justice, hah

To the Editor:
Being an American means sometimes you are asked to do certain things. One such thing is being a juror.

Jurors must rearrange their lives for at least a week in order to serve. They then are asked to decide the guilt or innocence of individuals based on evidence and testimony and render a verdict. Two off-duty police officers, Ronald Pilati and Jerome

Volstead, were found guilty by a jury of their peers of the handcuffed beating of Ryan Hallett outside a Fox Lake bar.

I find it very inappropriate for Judge Joseph Condon to overturn the jury's guilty decision on these felony convictions and then immediately seal the records.

Apparently he wants to let these two to have the opportunity to once again become law enforcement officers. So I'm asking why even bother serving on juries if judges such as Condon can overrule a jury's decision, and then seal the file? What about justice? What about the Freedom of Information Act? Or is a judge above that now?

Highway speed limits no answer to costs

It is always amazing how Congress tries to react to everyday problems with its political solutions.

Everyone knows that the high gas crisis has been with us and the recent slight reductions are only a small dent in the highway headaches facing American commuters and travelers.

So, what is the U. S. Senate's answer?

Along comes Sen. John Warner (R-Virginia) and he is asking the Department of Energy to study the return of a nationwide 55 miles per hour speed limit to save energy and lives.

He maintains that the speed limit worked after the oil crisis of the 1970s and it can work again.

I'm sure that he expects a favorable report and then he'll introduce legislation to impose the speed limit.

If you have driven down some of the wide open expanses in different parts of our great country and not seen any traffic for miles and miles, you understand why mandating one speed limit throughout the nation makes no sense.

It should be up to each state to adopt their own traffic and John S.

Matijevich

speed laws.

States' rights ought to mean something, and there is always the danger that when we bow to the federal government to resolve matters, we usually invite trouble and create more problems than solutions.

In most cases, and it happened in the 1970s, motorists travel at speeds that seem safe and reasonable depending on the particular area.

If it is wide open with little traffic on an interstate highway, driving up to 70 miles an hour seems safe, so most drivers travel at around that speed.

Except for a few "lead foots," most drivers travel at the same speeds, and that usually translates to traffic safety.

It's when there is driving at different speeds of reckless abandon that accidents occur.

So, what else happened in the 1970s?

You guessed it.
It was a field day for the state police.

Yes, imposing a 55 mph speed limit will bring additional revenue.

Motorists will pay heavy fines for violating posted speed limits.

They may find that their insurance rates will increase, too.

Or they may find that the moving traffic violations will jeopardize their driving privilege and cause driver license suspensions.

All in all, a disturbed and frustrated driver can become an unsafe driver.

We've all encountered some form of road rage on the highways.

What happens when a driver traveling in the left lane at the legally posted 55 mph speed limit looks in the rear view mirror to find a big six-wheeler barreling at his or her rear bumper.

You can't say, "Hey, I'm going the speed limit, you move over."

No, what usually happens, it causes quick lane changes and collisions or near collisions.

Except for more and heavy fines, I'm not sure how much energy is saved by a universal speed limit.

Naturally, if all drivers did obey that speed limit, considerable fuel savings would result.

But, on super highways, drivers will still drive at the speed that just seems natural for the stretch of highway that they are using.

That's why the states, and not the federal government, ought to be the ones enacting policies affecting highway traffic within their jurisdictions.

Sen. John Warner will soon retire after a long and distinguished career in the Senate.

In his 30 years there, his expertise in foreign affairs has been invaluable.

I choose to remember him for that rather than this latest effort at domestic affairs.

I know that he is sincere, but imposing a universal 55 mph speed limit will only punish thousands of Americans who otherwise have safe driving records on our interstate highways.

We are punished enough with these ridiculously high gas pump prices.

Don't compound our agony with ridiculously high, and ill-advised, speeding fines.

Bears have concerns

By NICK HUT

nhut@nwnewsgroup.com

BOURBONNAIS - The end of training camp at Olivet Nazarene University is significant only in a logistical sense.

The Bears' preseason work is continuing in earnest this week at Halas Hall.

The biggest differences: Players get to go home after practice, and fans cannot attend.

It's tough, then, to use the end of camp as a time to gauge where the team stands. The end of the preseason is a better occasion, and even then, who really knows?

With that caveat in mind, here's how I see the Bears' camp after having attended every practice: It was good, but maybe not good enough.

It was good because the Bears got all the contract issues and potential distractions out of the way early.

The importance of a happy, harmonious locker room cannot be underestimated.

It was good because Brian Urlacher, Mike Brown and Tommie Harris all looked to be in excellent shape.

If they stay healthy, the defense can keep this team in every game.

It was good because the Bears mostly avoided serious injuries. As coach Lovie Smith said, that might be the only objective way to measure a successful camp.

It was good because the work on the field was crisp, fast-paced and largely error-free.

The Bears looked hungry to prove last season, not the season before, was the fluke.

Still, anyone who doesn't see serious questions with this team is wearing blinders.

Training camp did not provide any resounding answers to some of those issues, which is why the positive news is only half the picture. Maybe less than half.

There's room to wonder even about the defense, which was marred by poor tackling and silly penalties last season. There's room to wonder because, as usual, the Bears minimized blocking and tackling during camp.

The one exception to the good news on the injury front was pivotal. Rookie first-round draft pick Chris Williams, who was expected to anchor the offensive line as the left tackle, is out until November after undergoing surgery on his lower back.

The line held up fine against the Kansas City Chiefs' vanilla defense in the preseason opener. It seemed like the coaches got a bit too carried away with the initial success, though.

The wide receivers looked like a talented bunch that still lacks a go-to target. Devin Hester is the best hope for developing into someone opposing defenses would actually fear - what a concept! - but he remains a work in progress and probably will for most of 2008.

A struggling offense does not have to mean doom. It struggled for 2005 and part of 2006, and the Bears still had successful seasons.

The key difference this time could be the special teams, which did not live up to their usual high standards during camp.

Hester is all anyone needs in the return game, but the coverage teams had a hard time replacing captain and two-time Pro Bowl selection Brendon Ayanbadejo.

Fortunately, special teams coordinator Dave Toub is an outstanding coach who has time to rectify the situation.

And that's the thing about training camp observations - they're most definitely subject to change.

Former assistant Jaime Weber takes over as head coach

By MATT DOUTHETT

mdouthett@nwnewsgroup.com

WAUCONDA - After spending seven years coaching three different sports in some capacity, Jaime Weber finally is getting the chance to concentrate on just one sport.

Weber is now the head girls basketball coach at Wauconda High School. She's coached track, volleyball and basketball. She said she is grateful for the opportunity to coach the girls team.

"I've put in a lot of time, and it's not something I expected at first," she said.

"Last year after winning the regional championship, it makes me grateful for the opportunity. I played here - there's a lot of history - I go a long way back with this program."

Weber, who is a physical education team leader at Wauconda Middle School, describes her coaching style as "brutally honest with the girls."

"I'm very tough as far as expectations go," she said.

"I'm not one to lower the bar. They've got to go in and meet those expectations and work hard. ... If you got the fundamentals right then that will carry over."

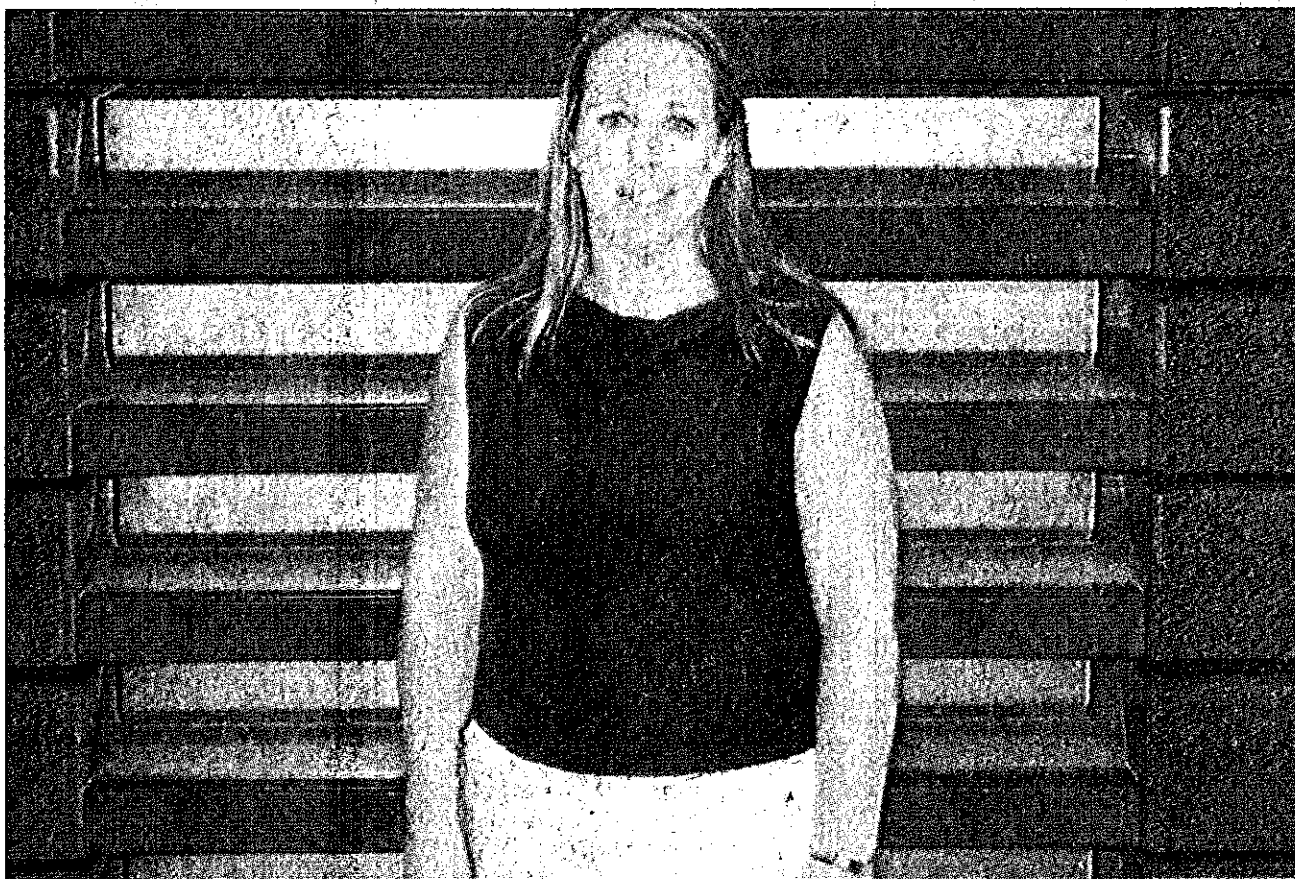

Weber said she is a defensive-minded coach, using the old cliché "defense wins championships."

"If you can't stop the other team from scoring, it doesn't matter how many points you can score," she said.

"We really worked on that a lot this summer. We worked on our man and our zone [defenses] and we really want to step it up defensively."

"You're going to practice the same way you play in a game," Weber said. "If you're [lackadaisical] and sloppy in practice, that's how you're going to play in a game."

Weber is looking forward to the upcoming season.

"I'm excited and a little nervous," she said. "We're a little low on numbers, but the [girls] coming back are quality. We're young, but I think we're in pretty good shape."

Weber said that playing for Wauconda in high school gives her an extra sense of pride in being a coach.

"It gives you a little more to work for and defend, because you aren't just a coach, you were a player here as well," she said. "You coach a little bit different."

"I think I relate to my players pretty well," Weber said. "They know the history, they know I've put in the time [which is] exactly what they're doing. When I make them run, they know I've been there too. I know that what I expect from them is what was expected of me. It just continued on, right down the line."

Weber said her favorite part about coaching is working with the kids. It isn't limited to just teaching them basketball skills, however.

"Basketball is a long season, and we spend a lot of time together on the bus," she said.

"You get to know the girls and see them develop into more than just an athlete. It's nice to have a relationship with the kids."

Weber said she would like to change a few things at Wauconda.

"I think we need to implement more strength and conditioning for the girls basketball team," she said. "I think if we're going to continue to compete at the top of the conference, we need to start weight training. That makes me excited to see what kind of effect that's going to have on our girls."

Fishing with a Lindenhurst captain

Captain Walt Koch sent me an e-mail with a tip on boat gas savings a while back. We exchanged greetings and I told him to give me a call if he ever had a few hours open.

Walt runs the Red Rock Guide Service, concentrating primarily on Geneva Lake.

After canceling a couple of dates at the last minute, I wondered if Captain Koch had doubts about my reliability.

When I showed up almost an hour late for our evening outing, I was sure of it. If he was sore at me, I couldn't tell.

Walt is a very mild-mannered and pleasant man.

The amiable Captain proved to be someone I would always enjoy sharing a boat with.

Captain Walt Koch grew up in downstate Illinois.

He's lived in the city and its suburbs with a side trip to North Carolina.

He finally landed in Lindenhurst 25 years ago.

He's been married to his wife, Lana, for 37 years.

They have two grown sons and a pair of granddaughters.

Koch retired from being a chemist for Abbott Labs a few years ago and decided to expand his guiding business.

He first started guiding as a youth on his dad's upland game and waterfowl hunt club in Southern Illinois.

He began guiding on Geneva on a part-time basis in 1993.

We set out in his Lund Pro-V 2025, powered by a 225-horsepower Evinrude.

The rig was an '03 but looked brand new.

Walt uses top-flight equipment and keeps it all exceptionally neat and orderly.

That is a habit I truly admire.

I had one thing I had told Walt that was etched in stone - I had to be off of the water by 8 p.m. sharp - no exceptions.

We were in search of northern pike.

Walt had honed in on them in recent days, with a 16 pike catch on a four-hour excursion being his best effort this year so far.

We'd be targeting these toothy fish in deep water using Shimano reels spooled with No. 14 Berkley Fireline tipped with No. 17 Vanish fluorocarbon.

A 3 inch, 4-ounce egg sinker would get the bait down quickly.

We would try live perch and bluegills and also some live suckers.

The technique is to drop your bait to the bottom and then bring it in two cranks so the weight was up a foot or two, allowing the bait to swim freely.

Walt told me to let the fish run for one minute if I felt a strike, which would probably be faint.

Then I was to reel in until I felt weight and then set the hook.

I had a hard strike while raising my bait.

It came halfway in and then spit the bait.

There weren't any teeth marks on the perch so it was probably a smallmouth.

We fished for a while.

Walt's sonar showed plenty of fish but they were obviously not hungry.

We were a half-hour closer to my 8 p.m. deadline.

We moved to a very steep breakline off of a well-defined weedline.

Again, we couldn't tempt a pike to hit our baits.

We again moved to a different pike spot and worked our live bait rigs, attentively awaiting a subtle tap.

Nothing doing, the pike just weren't hungry today.

We moved to the south side of Black Point as my watch showed 7 p.m.

I had an hour, absolutely no more time than that.

I was dead-set on leaving at 8 p.m.

Now we would be after smallies.

We used Fenwick Techna AV rods with high-end Shimano reels.

We were rigged with 6-pound Berkley Trilene and an eighth-ounce egg sinker.

Tiny No. 8 hooks would be threaded with whole crawlers or leeches.

Walt conditions his crawlers in ice water for a few minutes to toughen them up and make them expand.

We'd cast out and them sweep the rod tip back and then reel in any slack.

Captain Koch said that the sweep technique gave better feel than just reeling in.

The crawlers were very tempting, but to the wrong species of fish.

We began pulling in rock bass after rock bass with a few bluegills or two mixed in.

I love Geneva rockies and gills, but we wanted smallies and the clock now said it was 7:30 p.m.

I knew that if we could pop one smallie, more would come in short order.

That's the way it is with Geneva smallmouth bass.

After a few more chunky rockies, Walt switched to a G. Loomis/Shimano combo with a drop shot rig on the end.

He was spooled with Power Pro hi-vis yellow line tipped with 8-pound Vanish.

The plastic bait of choice was a Berkley Power bait 4 inch worm in a watermelon color.

It was 7:45 p.m.

Only 15 minutes and I needed to be gone.

Walt patiently tossed out his line a few times and finally was in an encounter with a beautiful, fat and feisty Geneva Lake smallie.

Steve Sarley

We both looked at our watches.

It was just a few clicks before my witching hour of 8 p.m.

Captain Walt grinned at me and asked, "Are you ready to head in?"

"Oh well," I responded.

"Why live my life on deadlines? What's another hour or two?"

I switched to a drop-shot rig and our smallie fishing began in earnest.

Congratulations go out to 15-year old Marcus Miller, a Centralia high school student, on the IDNR Division of Fisheries announcement that his catch of a huge hybrid crappie is officially a State record.

Genetics test results have confirmed that the fish caught on May 14 at the family's farm pond in Jefferson County was a hybrid crappie.

IDNR fisheries biologist Mike Hooe confirmed that the fish weighed 4.52 pounds, had a total length of 18.75 inches, a girth of 16 7/8 inches, and was 3 inches thick.

The fish eclipsed the prior State record, a 2 pound 13 ounce hybrid crappie caught in Shabbona Lake in March of 2007.

The new record hybrid crappie is also the largest crappie of any kind caught in Illinois, which recognizes records for white, black and hybrid crappie.

Hybrid crappies are a naturally occurring cross breed between white and black crappies and are found throughout the state.

Marcus Miller caught the new State record fish on a Zebco Genesis rod and reel combo with a nightcrawler.

What a whopper!

Stories stored in memory

My 3-year-old daughter Angelina loves to talk. A lot.

Her typical day includes conversations with imaginary friends, a heart to heart with the dog, nonsensical singing and long stretches in which she will just sing or say a random phrase over and over and over again.

The other day she and a friend treated me to a terribly off-key (and oft-repeated) version of the Alicia Keys song, "No One".

More recently, it was a song from "Willy Wonka & The Chocolate Factory."

Yes, unfortunately the "Oompa, Loompa Doompadee Doo" one.

Adorable the first several times, maddening the next several hundred.

(I truly apologize if this song is now stuck in your head for the rest of the day!)

I can hardly believe all the time I spent when she was small trying to coax out that first word.

It turned out to be two words, a question actually.

She said, "What's that?" and she hasn't stopped asking questions since.

It is amazing how much parental energy we spend wondering when our children will talk and then why they haven't yet.

Of course, later on we can't help but worry about the things they say, or worse yet, what they aren't choosing to tell us.

Right now, the conversations I have with my daughter are priceless.

At nighttime I lay with her in her bed, watching her wide, expressive eyes and listening to the stories she tells.

I treasure her mispronunciations and the way her stories always end with her saying "Amen" instead of the more traditional "The End".

I look forward to a time when my daughter and I can share mother/daughter heart to heart chats and tell each other our innermost feelings and fears.

Because somehow I don't think it will be happening with my sons.

The other night I tucked my almost 9-year-old into bed and he looked so serious, so pensive. I thought he really needed to talk about something.

"What's wrong, Bud?" I asked him, gently.

"It's going to be so hard to sleep, Mom."

He looked at me with worried eyes and my mind raced with thoughts of what could be wrong.

"I just have to figure out how to get to the next level on Mario Brothers."

Yes, the deep, dark worries that keep my son up at night involved his video games.

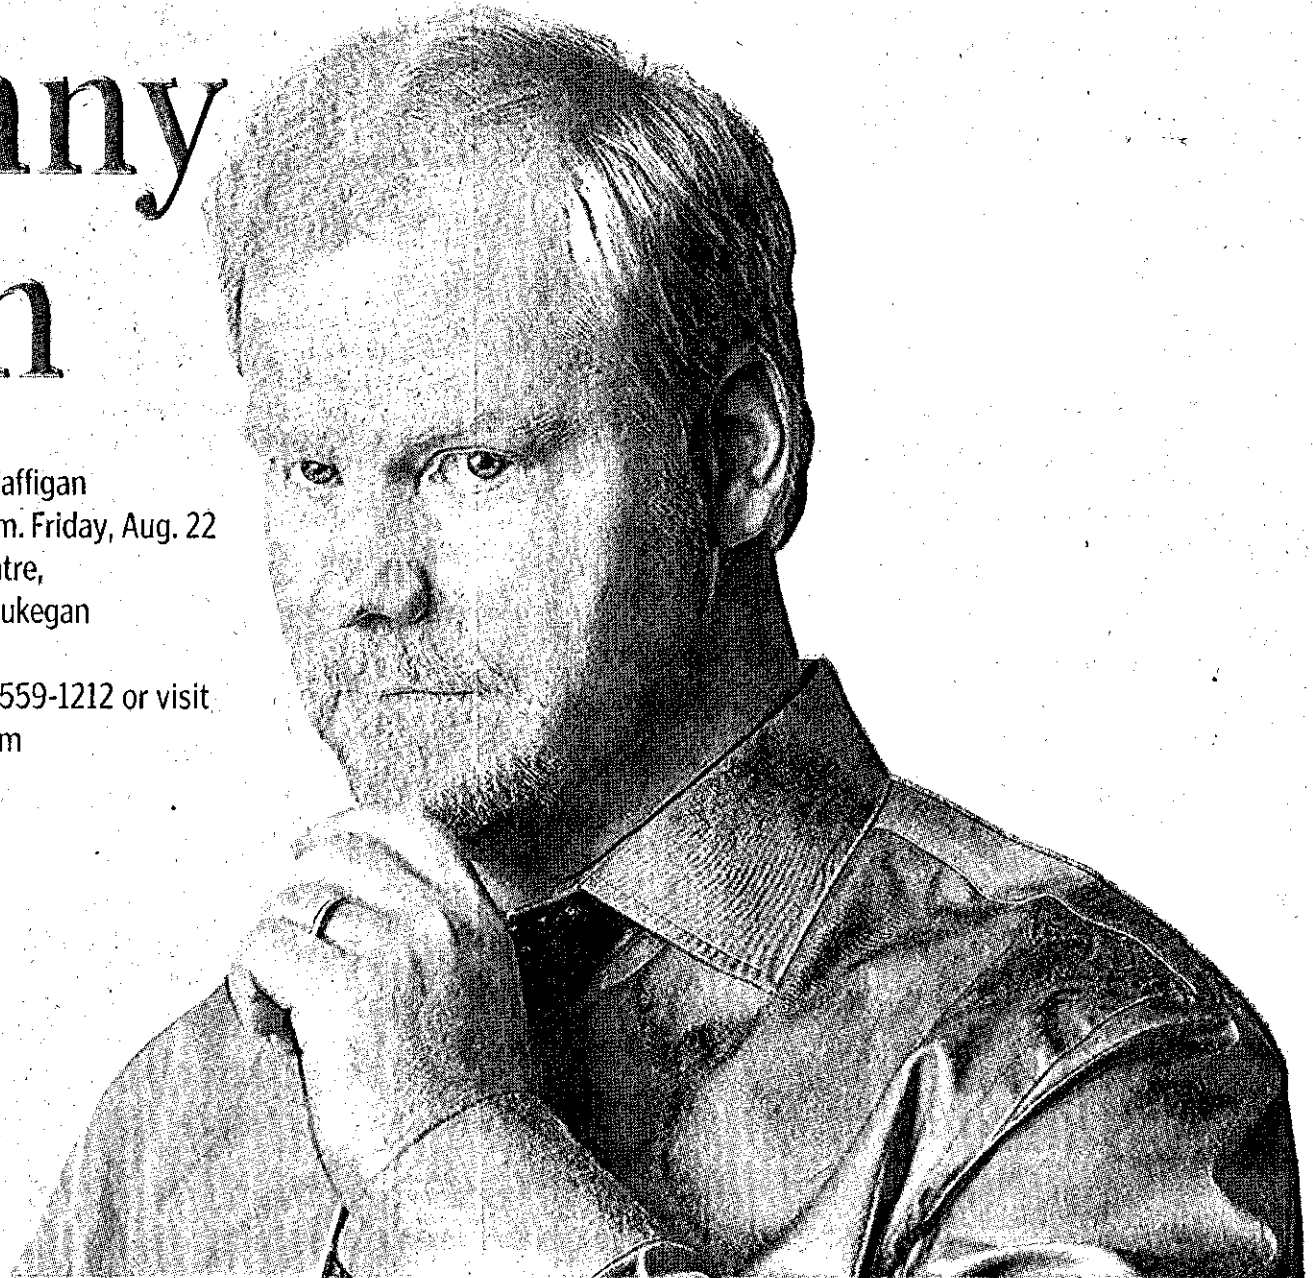

Ah, boys ...

But somehow I knew that this was a priceless conversation, too.

Your guide to the storied battles depicted in the 'Star Wars' prequels, cartoon miniseries

By JEFFREY WESTHOFF
sidetracks@nwnewsgroup.com

The Clone Wars are such a big part of "Star Wars" history that George Lucas decided they wouldn't fit into his trilogy of prequels.

The Clone Wars start in "Episode II: Attack of the Clones" (which ends with Yoda saying, "Begun, the Clone War has") and end in "Episode III: Revenge of the Sith." To other creators, Lucas has given the job of filling in what happens between the two films.

The computer-animated "Star Wars: The Clone Wars," which hits theaters today, is the most high-profile chapter in the Clone Wars saga, but it is not the first and certainly won't be the last. The new film is something of a prequel to a computer-animated TV series from the same creative team that will premiere on the Cartoon Network this fall.

The Cartoon Network already hosted Clone Wars cartoons, two sets of miniseries from "Dexter's Laboratory" creator Genndy Tartakovsky. With a keen sense of the characters and a heavy emphasis on action and storytelling stripped to the essentials, these cartoons are the best filmed "Star Wars" adventures since "The Empire Strikes Back."

In addition, Dark Horse comics has published two series of Clone Wars comic books. One, titled "Clone Wars Adventures," is aimed at younger readers.

Both series are available in trade paperback collections. For the sake of simplicity, this guide refers only to the film and TV versions of the Clone Wars.

Early report

Fans first head about the Clone

Wars in 1977's "Star Wars" (or, if you insist, "Episode IV: A New Hope").

In the scene where Luke meets Ben Kenobi, R2-D2 plays the full message from Princess Leia (the one that famously ends, "Help me, Obi-Wan Kenobi, you're my only hope").

She says, "General Kenobi, years ago you served my father in the Clone Wars."

After Luke asks, "You fought in the Clone Wars?" old Obi-Wan supplies some family history: "I was once a Jedi knight the same as your father. ... He was the best star pilot in the galaxy, and a cunning warrior. ... And a good friend."

Obi-Wan then gives Luke his father's lightsaber, claiming that Darth Vader killed his father instead of telling the truth that Darth Vader was his father.

This brief exchange fired fans' imagination about the Clone Wars for nearly three decades.

Quick history

The Clone Wars begin with the Battle of Geonosis, seen at the end of "Attack of the Clones," and end roughly three years later with Obi-Wan Kenobi's defeat of General Grievous on Utapau, which occurs in "Revenge of the Sith."

The two sides in the war are the Old Republic, represented by the Senate on Coruscant and Chancellor Palpatine, and the Separatist Coalition, led by Count Dooku and his Sith master, Darth Sidious, who is secretly Chancellor Palpatine.

Wait a minute ... the same guy is in charge of both sides?

Yes. Basically, Palpatine/Sidious maneuvers both sides into warfare as part of his long-term goal of enslaving the galaxy and becoming emperor, which happens near the end of "Revenge of the Sith."

Why are they called clone wars?

The soldiers in the Grand Army of the Republic have all been cloned from one man, bounty hunter Jango Fett (who raised one of the clones as his son, Boba Fett). These Clone Troopers would become the Emperor's stormtroopers, as seen in the original trilogy.

Meanwhile, the separatist army is largely composed of battle droids, which were first seen in "Episode I: The Phantom Menace." This leads me to suspect Lucas always had a Clone Wars cartoon series in mind, because in television cartoons you can blow away all the robots you want without alarming network censors, but start killing large numbers of humans and you're in a late-night time slot.

Second Wayne's Pizza Opens: More Of A Good Thing

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

Wayne's Pizza has been the place to go for pizza in the Third Lake/Grayslake area for the past 20 years. Now father and daughter, Wayne and Jessica Daymont, have teamed up to open another location at 333 Route 45 in Lindenhurst.

Jessica said they've been busy selling the same great pizza since opening their doors on December 15. "Dad's recipes are very good. He took a long time perfecting them," she said. She added that her father has been making pizza for 30 years.

Twenty-one year old Jessica brings enthusiasm to the business, as well as 7 years experience working in her father's restaurant. She and the staff were warm and engaging, and the service was quick.

Wayne's has thin crust, "double decker", and pan pizza. The thin crust, cheese and pepperoni pizza I tried had a generous amount of fresh pepperoni sandwiched between two layers of melted cheese; the sauce had a satisfying punch.

The restaurant also has a full menu that includes hot dogs, hamburgers, sandwiches, appetizers, and even dinners. "People really like our homemade Italian beef and our spaghetti," Jessica noted. Prices are very reasonable. For example, a 21 shrimp dinner with French fries and coleslaw is only $5.95.

And don't forget dessert. Wayne's has soft serve ice cream and 8 flavors of hand-picked ice cream all year round. So try a shake or sundae and enjoy a bit of summer.

In addition to carry out and delivery, the new Wayne's Pizza has a fun dining area with seating for 10. The space has the feel of a 1950s diner, with stainless steel dinettes and vintage photos on the walls. The red, white, and black color scheme echoes this theme, along with model cars and a Coke machine from the period. The dining area is ideal for birthday parties and team get-togethers.

Wayne's Pizza also has a variety of catering packages to make your event a success no matter where the location. All their "party packages" are ready to heat and eat. Select from baked mostaccioli, Italian sausage, Italian meatballs, and Italian beef. Again, prices are reasonable. For example, a half tray of mostaccioli serves up to 12 people for only $21.95.

Jessica said they hope to open more locations in the future. Here's to their continued success, because you can never get too much of a good thing.

Superfoods Take The Cake

(NAPSA) If you think you don't have the time to eat right, you may want to take a quick look at "superfoods."

Superfoods are naturally grown plants with concentrated sources of energy and nutrients. They help to increase energy without bogging down the digestive process. Plus, their nutritional content is easily absorbed. Perhaps just as important to busy families, though, is the fact that superfoods can be superfast.

Some examples of superfoods are blueberries, whole grains, spinach, nuts and seeds, avocados and even dark chocolate. All of these consumed in moderation have been proven to increase overall health. Today, 70 percent of Americans are buying superfoods (a possible sign that people are looking for fast ways to replace the drive-through).

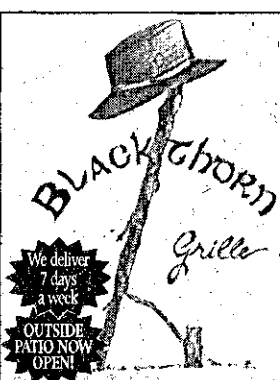

Dr. Steven Pratt is a world-renowned authority on the role of nutrition and lifestyle in the prevention of disease and optimizing health. In his book "SuperFoods Rx," he discusses the 14 superfoods he says can increase your life span. He calls the consumption of superfoods on a regular basis the nutritional equivalent of the fountain of youth that will prevent cancer, heart disease and diabetes.

So what's a fast way to get superfoods into your diet? You could try a nutritional bar such as Think Green superfood bar. One bar fulfills three of the five FDA-required servings of fruits and vegetables. The bar is made with alfalfa grass, barley grass, brown rice, wheat grass, broccoli and carrots, and it comes in chocolate chip and apple cranberry flavors.

People can also try Think Green Blueberry with Noni &

Grape Seed and Think Green Acai with high protein. Acai works with the body to produce high levels of energy, increase stamina, improve mental clarity, boost the immune system and create high fiber levels. Acai also has six times the antioxidant levels of the Mangosteen, a fruit known for its high antioxidant levels.

New elegant countertops provide inexpensive facelift

Outdated cabinets, faded countertops, tired appliances, stained flooring and tiles. Does this remind you of your kitchen? If you have not remodeled your kitchen in years, then the answer is probably a disheartened yes. But is it time for a complete kitchen makeover, or just a facelift?

The answer depends on your budget. The bad news is that a total renovation project can be very costly. The good news is that you can replace your countertops and feel as though you have a brand new kitchen.

That's because your countertop is the most visible source of color in the kitchen. If your cabinets are white or wood, then what immediately catches your eye is the surface you use the most, your countertop.

Countertops are the most important work surface, and a key element in the design and luxury of your home. Much like the clothes we wear, the fashion statement of the environment we live in can either reaffirm the latest colors and styles or showcase the looks of the past. If your current countertops are dusty rose or lime green, you are long overdue for something new.

If you look at what's available you will be amazed at the selection not only of colors but textures and finishes as well. The primary goal now is to find a durable, stain-resistant and easy to clean surface that will also bring style, elegance and beauty to your kitchen.

For the past few years, the fastest growing category of premium countertops, and the one with the most allure, has been quartz because it provides the best balance of beauty, durability and style.

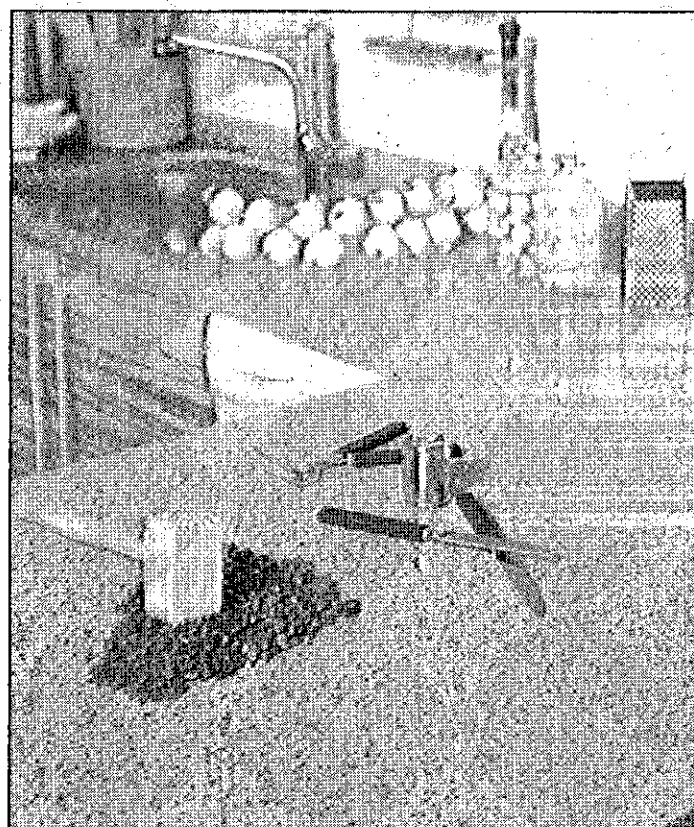

"Quartz countertops have the deep beautiful colors of granite without the problems and high-maintenance of porous stone," explained Mark Hanna, President of Leeza Distribution Inc., distributor of HanStone Fine Quartz Surfaces. "Through superior strength and incredible beauty, quartz countertops are rapidly becoming the choice for discerning homeowners."

Quartz countertops, such as the industry's top rated HanStone surfaces, offer a sophisticated elegance and timeless beauty. They are stronger than granite and because they're nonporous they require no resealing, are highly resistant to scratches, stains, and bacteria growth and come in a huge variety of colors.

In fact, HanStone quartz surfaces, a favorite of designers and developers, boasts 32 dramatic colors and patterns and can be used in virtually any indoor surfacing application in kitchens, bathrooms including floors, countertops, island tops and backsplashes.

With beautiful, elegant premium countertops garnering the envious looks of your guests, your kitchen will have a fresh new look for the fraction of the cost of a complete renovation. More information on fine quartz surfaces is available at leezadistribution.com.

Merit Building Supply: Your local home improvement advisor

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

A home improvement project can be a daunting task. Luckily, Merit Building Supply has the products and expertise to guide you, along with warehouse-direct pricing. That's why the area's largest homebuilders and contractors shop there too.

Merit Building Supply has a full range of products for new construction or remodeling. The company offers cabinets, counter tops, windows, exterior doors, interior millwork, siding, gutters, decking, plumbing fixtures, and much more—all from leading suppliers. In addition, these products are backed by some of the best manufacturer's warranties in the business.

Owner Dean Sjog said he started Merit Building Supply 14 years ago with the goal of "making service a huge aspect of the company." As a result, the company has specialists on staff dedicated to making sure your particular project is a success.

For example, considering a new kitchen or bathroom? Schedule a free design consultation with Merit's cabinet design specialist, Linette. Planning on replacing those windows? Consult with a Merit window specialist.

Then rest easy knowing that the company's in-house window installation specialists will complete the job. Dean also noted that the company has a fully staffed service department to handle any repairs.

Many of the company's products are on display in its 2,000 square foot showroom, so you can inspect your selections before you buy. There's also a full design center for kitchen and bath projects, as well as a showroom displaying high quality faucets and shower fixtures.

As part of Merit's emphasis on service, Dean added that his company makes every effort to educate the consumer on how to avoid home improvement scams. Instead, they try to point the customer in the right direction during every phase of a project. He said they also recommend reputable contractors.

"A lot of people come here for our experience," Dean noted. That, plus warehouse-direct pricing, make Merit Building Supply
